'Large' contributors fund campaigns

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Contributors offering large amounts of money funded much of the campaign effort of the candidates who sought the top administrative post in Romulus' city government.

According to campaign expense reports on file with the Wayne County Election Commission, individual contributors of $100 or more financed better than 50 percent of one mayoral candidate's campaign and 16 percent of another's campaign.

However, in the case of Mayor Terry L. Troutt, who ran as a member of the 7-person Troutt Team, a good portion of the team's funds was raised through parties with tickets selling at $100 apiece. The purchasers of the $100 tickets did not have to be listed on the county campaign expense statements this year.

Individual donors of $100 or more are listed as contributing $7,745.32 of Mayor James C. Stewart's $14,480.92 raised during the primary and general election campaigns in this election year.

Individual donors of $100 or more are listed as contributing $4,000 of the $25,025.65 raised by the Troutt Team.

However, individuals are not listed among those who purchased tickets for parties during the primary and general elections which accounted for $20,111.45 of the better than $25,000 total raised during the primary and general election campaigns.

Heading the lists of donors are two persons who contributed more than $1,000 each to Stewart's campaign, and a union organization which contributed $2,000 to the Troutt Team effort.

Dolores Ristow, who contributed $2,000 to Stewart during the general and primary election campaigns, and Hyle J. Carmichael who contributed $1,787.56 to Stewart during the full election campaign, head the list of individual donors in terms of funds.

Joe Phillips, owner of Airport Parking in Romulus, contributed $917.17 to the Stewart effort.

Local 502 of the Wayne County Sheriff's patrolmen's union contributed $2,000 to the Troutt effort, to be the largest single organization listed as a contributor.

D.J. Goodman and Milton Dresser were listed as contributing $500 apiece to the Troutt Team effort.

Contributors of at least $500 to Stewart's effort, in addition to those listed include Oliver Warren and Robert Abbley - $750 each, Hudiak Waste Disposal - $505.06 and Richard Donahy - $500.

Abbley and Warren were council candidates who ran in the September primary election.

Contributors of $100 or more to the Troutt effort as recorded at Wayne County include John R. Frimadig - $200, Hugo A. Nami - $100, S.G. Hayes - $100 and Charles Omarzu - $100 during the primary campaign.

Contributors of $100 or more during the general election campaign to the Troutt Team include: Howard Lethemon - $100, 15th District Democrats - $100, and Dan and Dorothy Lambert - $200.

Lethemon contributed $40 during the primary campaign.

During the primary campaign, contributors of $100 or more to Stewart include: Stewart himself - $400, B.B. Moshier - $100, Moore Brothers - $280, B. and E. Machine - $305, and Ed. Fall - $150.

Contributors of $100 or more to Stewart during the general election campaign include: Ron DeLamielleure - $100, B.B. Moshier - $100, Ed and Jeanne Bunn - $100, B. and E. Machine - $100, Allen Coolseat - $100, Ernest Davis - $100, Joe Lambert - $200, Charles and Phyllis Breithaupt - $200, Richard Werner of Solar Machine - $100 and Felix Rogalle - $100.

Contributors of at least $20 to Stewart's primary and general election campaigns include: Ida Woody - $25, Billy Coaltrain - $25, Dick Wichella, $20, Howard Dubiski - $20, Lou Blitz - $50, Romulus Drugs - $35, Leon Zol - $25, Jim Lyos - $50, Harold Dugan - $50, Markin and Sowards - $50, Leo Kalota - $75, Jerold and Rose Thurston - $25, Donald and Joyce Morgan - $25, James and Judith Demet - $20, Romulus Gun Club - $50, and Rainbow Tape and Label - $50.

Contributors of $20 listed on the county campaign expense lists for the Troutt Team effort include: Akron Tire - $20, Arthur A. Wenke - $40, Highland Industrial Co. -

$20, Ellis and Fad - $25, Bozzami Building Inc. - $50, UAW West Side Golf League - $75, and Larson Co. - $20.

Members of the Troutt Team listed as contributing funds in their own behalf include: Terry L. Troutt - $191.80, John Lewkowicz - $184.90, Lnnng Coleman - $164, Joan A. Lee - $181.85, Beverly McAnally - $189.80, Jon W. Madish - $175.50 and Jack Trumble - $183.70.

Stewart passes Troutt's 'hurdle'

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Mayor James Stewart's latest hurdle to rid himself of the cloud over the city's top post has been passed.

Romulus' new mayor was informed that Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Joseph A. Sullivan denied Terry L. Troutt's contention that the Wayne County Board of Canvassers cannot adjourn its recount certification meeting.

In a court hearing Monday morning, Judge Sullivan ruled that the Election Commission could adjourn its meeting officially and affirm the recount which shows that Stewart won the mayoral post in a 13-vote victory over Troutt.

However, the cloud hasn't disappeared yet.

Judge Sullivan left the door open to a possible tallying of the absentee ballots voided by City Clerk Leonard Folmar before they were counted.

Prior to the Nov. 4 general election, Folmar refused to count an estimated 30 ballots because he said signatures on those ballots did not match voter registration card signatures in Folmar's possession, or because the ballots were marred in some way.

While the clerk claims he has the right to void a ballot, Troutt maintains that Folmar should have shown the ballots to the City Election Commission for a decision on whether the ballots actually should be tallied.

The Election Commission consists of the clerk, the city's mayor and the mayor pro tem of the City Council.

Stewart took the latest hurdle in his tenure as mayor in stride.

"Once again the judge upheld my election," Stewart said. "There was some discussion about the absentee ballots, but that'll have to be settled later."

"I'm confident that I'll remain in office to do the job the people elected me for."

Troutt was unavailable for comment on the matter.

No date has been set on any possible hearings on the validity of Folmar's action regarding the absentee ballots.

Drain lawsuit eyed

Area officials are hoping that the leaders of 10 communities involved in a massive drain cleaning program supervised by the Wayne County drain commissioner will back a class action lawsuit to halt what they believe is an illegal tax.

Officials from Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron townships were among the officials from five communities who are meeting to develop a class-action against Drain Commissioner Charles N. Youngblood to halt collecting more than what they believe are $200,000 in special assessments for "drain cleaning and inspections" in their communities.

Huron Township Supervisor George W. Moore informed the officials that he has discussed the lawsuit with Harry Ellman, an attorney who has handled a massive class action suit in Michigan, and said that the attorney would be interested in taking the townships' lawsuit, providing the 10 communities involved come up with $1,500 apiece to fund it.

"We wanted to find some attorneys who know how to work with class action suits in Michigan courts," Moore said. "This attorney handled the lawsuit which won a $6 million award from the uninsured motorists fund."

Local community leaders are hoping that the 10 communities which are involved in the special assessment scheme - Brownstown, Woodhaven, Flat Rock, Gibraltar, Romulus, Taylor, Belleville and the three townships - pass a resolution of intent to fight the plan.

Van Buren, Huron and Brownstown townships already have agreed to go along with the drain fight, if it is pressed.

However, the three communities are awaiting proof that they are allowed to furnish funds for the fight before they appropriate the money.

According to Joseph Didia, one of the Van Buren representatives to the drain meetings, Ellman will furnish a written opinion on the legality of using public funds in a class action battle.

Didia said that the attorney has indicated the communities can become involved because treasurers in those communities are to collect what amounts to an illegal tax in the drain assessment scheme.

The lawsuit, if pressed, will be in two areas.

The first area would be to test the application of one section of Michigan law relating to the drain commissioner's power to survey and repair on drains.

Under the section - Chapter Eight of the drain commission law - the drain commissioner is not allowed to collect more than $800 per mile of drain for research and minor repairs on local drains without first receiving permission from the local community involved.

The second area of contention would be in the application of another section of the drain commissioner's powers regarding special assessments for work exceeding $800 per mile.

Mayor maintains department heads

Administrators in Romulus have a "stay of execution" against losing their offices.

Mayor James Stewart has sent a memo to all department heads in the city informing them that they can remain in office for the time being.

"According to the charter, they had to resign Monday (Dec. 1)," Stewart said. "But it would have disrupted business in City Hall if everyone had to resign."

"I'm not saying I'll be keeping them all on, but at least I want to keep them to offer service to the citizens."

However, one more appointee has been let go by Stewart - the fifth since he took office two weeks ago.

Carole Bales, secretary to the City Council, was dismissed by Stewart last week.

"Although she works for the council, the secretary to the council is appointed by the mayor," Stewart said. "I don't intend to leave the position vacant, because when I was a councilman it would have been valuable."

"But I have another person in mind for the job."

Stewart said he was ready to hire a replacement council secretary, but had to delay the hiring because the person who was to fill the position was concerned about working at night.

The secretary to the council in the past attended night council meetings and also was assigned to the night city Planning Commission to record the minutes of that meeting.

Mrs. Bales is the fifth strong supporter of Terry L. Troutt to be dismissed from the job by Stewart.

Her dismissal was preceded by the firings of three Department of Public Works supervisors and the city's personnel director. None have been replaced.

Pranksters sought

Officers of the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol are proceeding on tips that it was teen pranksters who set fire to a mayoral candidate's trailer two days before Romulus' closest mayoral election.

A detective from the Road Patrol said that the investigation is pursuing tips that students in Romulus High School have bragged to friends that they torched the trailer rented by James C. Stewart as campaign headquarters for the city's Nov. 4 election.

"While we do not rule out the fire being politically motivated, available evidence points toward a juvenile prank just after Halloween," said a sheriff's spokesman.

Stewart's trailer, parked in a field less than a half-mile from Romulus High School, burnt to the ground early in the morning Nov. 2 - just two days before the city's general election.

At the time the candidate speculated that the fire was political.

Stewart said he is concerned about finding the vandals who burned the trailer because he has been presented with a $2,640 bill for its replacement.

"When I rented it, I thought it was insured," he said. "But I learned otherwise, and now have to come up with the money."

"If someone is arrested in the case, I'll try to get the money out of them."

In Christmas spirit

A 29-year-old Romulus citizen may only be a 4-month resident of Romulus, but he's taking pride in his community right away. It was only days after Thanksgiving that he began working on his outdoor Christmas decorations. "We do it for looks and to get into the holiday spirit," he said. He and his wife, and their 6-year-old daughter live on Goddard Road in Romulus. They have been purchasing decorations for the past four years. — The Romulus Roman photo.

Hopefuls spend more $$ than they collected

Expenses of the two major opponents in Romulus' Nov. 4 general election outstripped contributions, according to expense statements filed with the Wayne County Election Commission.

Expense statements show that both the campaign organizations of Mayor James C. Stewart and Terry L. Troutt still owe money for services during the campaign.

Stewart's statements show that he spent $8,314.28 of the $8,509.92 collected during the general election effort.

Printing costs accounted for most of the expenses in Stewart's campaign, some $3,971.36. Ad costs accounted for $1,987.65 during the campaign. Mailing costs were $235.21. A $240 contribution was sent to council candidate Jimmie C. Raspberry.

Unpaid debts of $748.74 for campaign rally expenses and unknown debts for electricity bills were recorded with the county in Stewart's behalf.

Troutt's statement showed that $12,886.95 of the better than $13,000 collected during the general election campaign in behalf of the 7-member Troutt Team. Team members include Troutt, Treasurer John Lewkowicz, Councilmen Beverly McAnally and Joan A. Lee and council candidates Lnnng Coleman, Jon W. Madish and Jack Trumble.

Public relations work during the campaign accounted for a majority of the costs - $4,600, while printing costs accounted for $2,150.18 of the expenses listed.

Other major costs in the campaign include advertisement - $987.12 - and recount costs - $195.

Major debts are for public relations and photography, with $2,224.75 owed M.G. and Casey and $325 owed R.K. Arnold, a photographer.

South students recall 1st school Fun Night

Students and teachers at South Junior High School still are talking about the school's first Fun Night. More than 400 students and 25 members of the school staff attended.

"They all had lots of fun joining in on each of the activities such as basketball, volleyball, ping pong, games and dancing," said Beth Brinkerhoff, Student Council Public Relations director. "In the cafeteria, they could buy chips, pop and hot dogs and all the proceeds went to Student Council for future activities."

Miss Brinkerhoff; Debi Cammet — ninth grade representative; Sandi Sienko — eighth-grade representative; Mark Schofield — seventh-grade representative, and advisor, Jack Harris.

The assistant principals at the high school also were present at the Fun Night, along with Francis Cornett, mother of Sam Cornett.

CAP gains squadron

The Civil Air Patrol (CAP) has a new cadet squadron. The "Constellation Cadet Squadron" has 17 cadets and four senior members, including the commander, 2nd Lt. Willard G. Huffaker.

"Thanks to the cooperation and support of Wolverine Aviation Inc. and Supplemental Air Carriers Inc., a meeting place at the Willow Run Airport has been provided," a CAP spokesman said.

The meetings are on Thursday from 6:30 to 9 p.m. and are open to the public.

"Among the many benefits that will be offered are aerospace education, search and rescue techniques, radio communications, basic flight training and various field trips and activities," the spokesman added. "The cadets receive awards and promotions as they progress through each phase of the program.

"CAP cadets, as well as senior members, are privileged to wear the uniform of the U.S. Air Force. Hopefully, enough funds will be provided through contributions and an upcoming candy sale to supply the cadets with their own uniforms."

LETTER OF APPRECIATION — A Middle Belt Road resident recently received a letter of appreciation from the Detroit Metro Air Traffic controller for his attentiveness and responsive action which was instrumental in helping prevent an aircraft accident. On Sept. 20, Dave Whitacre was taxiing an aircraft in preparation for takeoff at Detroit Metro Airport. When approaching the runway he noticed an aircraft on short final approach to the runway with its landing gear not extended. He took immediate action and alerted the air traffic controller in the tower of the hazardous situation. His action enabled the tower controller, Larry Schneider, to issue a "go around" to the pilot of the aircraft in time to avert a gear up landing. When the aircraft reached a safe altitude the controller advised the pilot of his gear problem. The pilot corrected his gear problem and made a normal landing. Shown with Whitacre (center) receiving a letter of appreciation are Detroit Metro Air Traffic controller Larry Schneider and Harry McIntyre, chief, Air Traffic Control at Detroit Metro.

Consumer agency stops visits

One of the few county agencies which regularly made itself available to residents in Western Wayne County in their own communities has cancelled the service due to a lack of funds.

The Wayne County Consumer Protection Agency, a division of the Wayne County prosecutor's office, has ended out-county visits to area communities once each month by consumer complaint specialist.

Prosecuting Attorney William L. Cahalan said the service was discontinued because of a fund cut which reduced the staffing of the agency by more than half.

However, keeping the agency open at all was a victory of sorts for residents of the county, who protested an original decision by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners — which sets the county budget — to eliminate the agency entirely because of fiscal problems in the county.

According to a spokesman for the agency, staff people will be on hand between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. weekdays to handle phone complaints at the agency - 224-2150. In addition, area residents still may visit the Consumer Protection Agency offices on the sixth floor of the Lafayette Building in Detroit.

Persons who cannot visit the agency still have an opportunity to handle some of their problems near their homes, since local clerk's offices will have forms for filing complaints with the consumer group.

Since its inception in the summer of 1974 under funding by the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA), the agency has saved county citizens more than $500,000 by thwarting consumer frauds involving such things as fire repair contracts, health spas and home improvement work.

Under its new set-up, the agency will be more selective in the cases it handles, referring those in the area of civil complaints to other government or consumer-oriented groups.

However criminal fraud complaints within the county will be handled by the agency.

The financial crunch in the agency's budget came in July when the original LEAA grant ran out, and the county was obliged to pick up the funding under the agreements with the federal government for the grant.

However county officials balked at picking up the funding of what at that time was believed to be a "frill" in the county budget when other county services were faltering.

It originally was announced at the end of the summer that the consumer work would be discontinued entirely, however the concern of county citizens expressed to commission members changed the original decision and allowed for a partial funding.

Meeting may be held soon on future building for court

The supervisor of Huron Township said he hopes to meet with Romulus officials sometime today in an effort to win the city's cooperation in finding a new 34th District Court building.

Supervisor George W. Moore yesterday said he hopes to contact Romulus Mayor James C. Stewart and Mayor Pro Tem Gervasio Canejo by today to set up a meeting to go over the details of court plans.

Representatives of Huron, Romulus,

Belleville, and the townships of Van Buren and Sumpter have been meeting since mid-summer to detail plans for a new court building.

However, just before the plans were to be made official through legislative resolutions in each community, the officials who had to be sold on the idea in Romulus changed.

The Nov. 4 general election brought Stewart and three new members to the council, including Canejo.

"I wouldn't expect the new officials to take a stand on the court matter without researching it," Moore said. "This is just an attempt to aid them in learning about it."

At this time, plans on the structure remain in limbo, with the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA), which has been asked to donate land for the structure, holding its decision in abeyance until Romulus makes up its mind on the plan.

Also held up by a lack of official action in Romulus is the start of plans for the structure by an architectural firm.

To date, all the communities involved in the 34th District except Romulus have given their go ahead to the plans.

However, Romulus will have the largest say in whether the plans proceed, since better than 40 percent of the court's cost will be financed by the city.

Cost of the structure will be divided among communities based on their state equalized value while the operation of the facility will be financed on a use basis with funds for both construction and operations coming from each community's normal fine income.

11 of 13 file statements on expense

Eleven of the 13 candidates for office in Romulus' Nov. 4 general election for City Council filed campaign expense statements by the Nov. 24 filing deadline.

Only candidates Oliver Warren and Charles Harris in the council field failed to meet the deadline. Franklin Ayers, a treasurer candidate, also failed to file by the deadline.

The three who did not file on time will be notified by letter that they have 10 days to comply with regulations requiring a filing of an expense statement before the matter is sent to the Wayne County prosecutor's office for action.

Of the candidates on file at the deadline, Robert H. Martin spent the most in his behalf — $895 while the 3-person "team" of Councilmen Fred Junior Block and William Oakley along with Clerk Leonard Folmar spent $1,671.33. Folmar ran unopposed in the election.

Martin showed donations of $200 to his campaign, including $100 from Airlines Parking and $50 each from Gary Johnson and Larry Hay. Block, Oakley and Folmar showed all their funds being raised through special fund-raisers with the donors not listed individually.

Romulus Mayor Pro Tem Gervasio Canejo spent $697.76 in his effort with a single donation of $75 from Charles R. Kline listed as receipts.

Joseph R. Kochanoski, an unsuccessful candidate, showed expenditures of $421.98 during the campaign, with donations in the same amount. Donating to Kochanoski's campaign were Carol Kochanoski — $100, Stanley Kochanoski — $100 and the candidate himself — $221.98.

Jimmie C. Raspberry showed an expenditure of $341.78 and donations of $300. Included in the list of donors were Jimmy Moore — $60, and the Stewart for Mayor Committee — $240.

Other candidates filing by the deadline include the members of the Trout Team, who spent better than $12,000 in a team effort, and still owe $2,550 on the campaign.

The team members include John Lewkowicz, treasurer, Joan A. Lee and Beverly McAnally, council members and Lnn Coleman, Jon W. Madish and Jack Trumble.

In addition to the Trout Team expense, individual expenditures were: Lewkowicz — $96.90, Coleman — $73, Mrs. Lee — $95.45, Mrs. McAnally — $94.30, Madish — $83 and Trumble — $89.40.

Seek judge in U.P.

Gov. William Milliken should look to the Upper Peninsula when he makes his choice of a replacement for former State Supreme Court Justice John B. Swainson who has resigned in the wake of a perjury conviction.

In addition to the opportunity to provide unique geographic balance to the Supreme Court, Milliken will find in the U.P. a premier candidate for the position in District Court Judge V. Robert Payant of Iron Mountain.

For a geographic standpoint, there is a void on the State Supreme Court as well as the Michigan Court of Appeals. Both are without representation from the northern part of the state.

Of greater importance is the stature of the U.P. judge. Payant has every qualification for the position, professionally and personally. His reputation in the U.P., the state, and the nation is flawless. His image is above reproach.

Payant has the experience, temperament, education and ability to make a significant contribution to the membership of the Supreme Court.

His 13 years as a trial court judge have given Payant a valuable look at the law from the view of the court of the people. His background includes lengthy service as a probate and juvenile court judge with civil and criminal case experience.

A brilliant law student at Marquette University, Payant also studied at the University of Michigan Law School.

Payant is recognized widely as an authority on American justice and often is called on for lecture and teaching assignments before professional law groups. He serves as a faculty member of the national college of the State Judiciary teaching in Missouri, Minnesota, New Mexico, Indiana, North Dakota and Nevada.

The 42-year-old father of five has taught for the Center of Judicial Administration across Michigan and for the Volunteers in Probation in Iowa, Kansas and Tennessee.

His leadership role in establishing the first U.S. program using volunteers in probation with adult offenders has been noted throughout the state. His fellow judges elected Payant president of the Michigan District Judges Association in 1973 and president-elect of the Michigan Probate and Juvenile Court Judges Association in 1968 when the district court began.

His involvement in community, state and national programs is impressive. His activities include chairmanship of the local community mental health board, cancer society, housing commission, state association of mental health, and Michigan Commission on Services to the Aging.

Payant is eminently qualified for a seat on the State Supreme Court.

As they see it

She appreciates trip

On Oct. 21 - 23, 1975, I as editor of Belleville High School paper, the Tiger Print, was chosen to go to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, to write an article on Today's Army. The trip was paid for and sponsored by the Army.

Twenty seniors and two juniors from 21 area schools met at Detroit Metro Airport at 7:30 a.m. for our big journey, we were to be soldiers for three days.

We got on the base just in time for lunch at the mess hall. During the three days we were there, we ate in the mess hall with the soldiers. It was interesting. The looks we got! After looking at the Army artillery all day, we stopped at a place in the mountains for hamburgers. One big husky guy said he could eat three burgers. A bet was made, if he could eat three—Bob had to pay.

The race was on! Both of them gulped the first one down, choked on the second and stared at the third. They both ate all three, but didn't look too well. But they smiled and staggered out to the bus.

The last day, Thursday, we rode in helicopters. It was fantastic!

The pilot twisted sideways but it wasn't scary. All the things on the ground seemed like toys. It was the first time for me. The trip was a first for me in several ways. Among them a first plane ride (I rode on five planes in three days), a first helicopter ride, and the first time I've ever been west.

It was time to go home. We arrived back at Metro, gathered our luggage, got last minute addresses and said good-bye to everyone.

The Army gave us a chance to be independent for three days. There's another trip for April 1976. Maybe I'll go again. Thank you to Sgt. Charles Harmon, who got me to go in the first place.

Is he worthy of re-election?

Give your legislator a mid-term exam

With an eye toward next year's election, it is an appropriate time to see whether your state legislator has been doing his homework and might deserve re-election.

The way to do this is give him a mid-term exam.

The subject: Gov. Milliken's Executive Order No. 11 and No. 12. For those who might not be familiar with those two documents, they are Milliken's proposals for lobbing millions of dollars off the state budget which the Legislature approved during the summer.

Milliken's Executive Order No. 11 was issued after his budget experts discovered that the revenues from state taxes would fall approximately $300 million short of the state's expenditures.

The order details how Milliken wants $150 million taken off the budget, so much from this program and so much from that department. The governor failed to get the approval of the House and Senate appropriations committees, as required by the State Constitution.

Those two groups—the House Appropriations Committee which has 18 members and the Senate Appropriations Committee which has 11—are the only members of the Legislature which have to take a position and make decisions of what is to be cut.

Okay, the mid-term exam for your person in the Legislature! Remember that you have two, a state representative and a state senator. If you don't know their names, just call this newspaper.

You probably are thinking to yourself: "Well what do I know about state budgets and appropriations and what should and should be cut."

Well, think about the things which affect your everyday life. The schools which your children attend, the state policemen who watch you on the highway, the State Labor Department that keeps an eye on your employer and State Department of Licensing and Regulation that makes sure that people who perform vital tasks for you are qualified and so on and on.

The state is involved in almost everything you do and these cuts are more than likely going to affect that involvement.

The problem is that the cutting process traditionally has involved only a handful of people, the legislative leaders and the governor's office.

Then the appropriations committees rubber stamp their decisions.

The average lawmaker does not get involved in this usually, unless there is a proposal to cut a program which affects his district.

He isn't required to take a close look at all the proposed cuts and what effect they will have.

There have been some exceptions. Two lawmakers—state Reps. Melvin L. Larsen of Oxford and Richard D. Fessler of Union Lake—have made some suggestions on the budget problem.

Fessler's suggestion is the type which most lawmakers are apt to make, if they make any at all; that's a broad proposal to make a controversial cut which has very little chance of passing, such as closing down state government for a month.

A first-term lawmaker, Fessler suggested that public school employees take 3 1/2 days of unpaid vacation during the coming year. He said this could save the budget $47.5 million during the next 12 months.

Similar proposals have been made and the teacher unions have rejected all of them, saying their members have suffered enough.

Larsen's proposal—actually, it's a warning of potential trouble spots—is more studied and detailed. He warns that these trouble spots in the social services budget could increase the revenue shortfall by as much as $30 million.

He suggested in a detailed memo that those doing the cutting take his warnings into consideration.

Ask your legislator what he would cut and ask him for a run-down department-by-department on what the governor proposes to be cut and how it will affect you back home.

You might write down your impressions of his reply, then tuck it away for future reference, sometime just before the next election.

In a love as ours little things are important.
The little things sometimes mean the most.
It's little things, a friendly word or smile,
These make my life with you more worthwhile.
Tell me your troubles and make your mind much lighter,
Tell me the things which will make your outlook seem much brighter.
Never mind the trouble, I'm here to understand,
With interest and encouragement in everything you plan.
Keep in mind I'm practically nothing without you,
You are my life now and I don't want to lose you!
Although I'm not with you every minute of the day,
I love you every second you're away!
It's the little things my life, my love,
These are the things remembered when we leave to join many up above.
It's the little things that have built our love so big.

'A Love
As Ours--
So Big'

By Roxanne Watts

To the editor: I wrote this poem when my friend and I were having troubles. It did a great deal in helping us get back together.

We've been very happy for so long. Now, I feel this poem may help if others read it and realize what it is saying.

I will be very happy if it is published.

One must cherish the little things which many ignore. If only more understand may be more happiness could be found.

'Just thinking'

By Orval A. Sumner

Sometimes as I sit in my chair and rock
And think of yesterday,
I think of all the fun we've had
And all the games we played.

Then I think of the more serious side
With all the trials of life.
When I quit being a run-around
And took myself a wife.

And then I think of our wedded time
And our three children, that came to stay.
How we raised our three offspring
But, from our nest, they flew away.

And now that we have grown older
And are filled with life, I'm told.
We recognize our reward from God,
Three fine grand kids, for growing old.

This poem by Orval A. Sumner of Romulus was written on Oct. 25, 1975.

If other area residents would like to see their poetry in print in their hometown weekly, they need just mail it to us. With the poem, include your name, address and phone number and an explanation of when and why you wrote the poem.

OPEN HOUSE SUCCESS — Students, teachers, school administrator and parents still are talking about the successful open house held at Belleville High School. During the open house, Margot Brown (above), Pat Mullins and Cheryl Jennings were stationed in the halls to direct visitors to rooms. The test commonly called The High School Equivalency Examination, makes it possible for men and women that have left school without receiving their diplomas an opportunity to receive an equivalency certificate. Huron High School also will give credits toward actual high school diplomas upon successful completion of the examination. Testing begins Dec. 15, 16 and 17 from 6 to 10 p.m. The test is free if the individual is enrolled in a Huron adult education class or is a resident of the Huron School District. The cost of the test is $15 for persons out of the district not enrolled in the program. For information call Roger Benner or Chris Fields at 782-2441 or 782-1505 between 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 10 p.m.

MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

Wagner was born in 1913 in Leipzig. His father died shortly after, and the widow married Ludwig Geyer, an actor, poet, painter, who was sincerely concerned for the boy's future, but admitted before his death that he had been unable to discover any definite trend in the boy's talent. In school in Dresden, Wagner showed much interest in Greek, German poetry, and tragedy in general but little affection for music. As a youth he wrote a tragedy that was so bloody that the final act had to be carried on by the ghosts of the characters.

Maton plans fire program

Local State Farm Insurance agent Dick Maton coordinated the visitation of local fire departments to the Van Buren Public School Districts eight elementary schools during National Fire Prevention Week. Visiting the Elwell Elementary School was the Sumpter Fire Department. Headed by Lt. Mike Conant the Sumpter Fire Department set up four trucks at stations to be visited by the classrooms. Each station had a different phase of fire fighting to explain. The almost 250 kindergarten, first and second graders touring the station learned the different phases of fire fighting and saw one of the firemen work the hose. The children were given a pamphlet on fire prevention.

FOR SAFETY SAKE — State Farm agent Dick Maton tells first grade teachers and students at Elwell Elementary School about fire safety. He was instrumental in setting up a fire Prevention Program involving students at the school and the Sumpter Fire Department. Talking with Maton are teachers Linda Christ and Cheryl Lentz.

2 districts release menus

The Romulus and Van Buren school districts recently released their menus for part of this and next week to allow parents and children to know what the student will eat at school. The early release of the menu allows mothers to decide what to prepare for dinner so that the child will not be eating the same meal twice in one day.

In Romulus students will be able to eat whipped potatoes with meat gravy loaf, butter peas, bread and butter and cookies tomorrow. Friday's menu includes lasagne with meat and cheese, hot vegetable, bread and butter and orange jello.

On Dec. 10, the schools will serve sloppy joes hot dogs, corn, rolls and butter and fruit cup. Dec. 11 turkey ala king with rice, baked sweet potatoes, bread and butter and fruit juice will be served, and Dec. 12th's menu includes macaroni and cheese, spinach, bread and butter, and cherry jello.

Milk is served with each lunch.

Students in Van Buren elementary schools will be served juice, hamburger on bun, french fries, fruit and cookie on Monday. Tuesday will bring ravioli with cheese in tomato sauce or taco, bread and butter, fruit or cake.

On Dec. 10, the schools will serve soup, pizza, potato chips and a cookie. While on Dec. 11, juice, oven fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, bread and butter, fruit and pudding will be served.

Students in Van Buren junior and senior high schools have a choice between the Type A or B lunch.

Monday's A lunch includes Italian lasagna, tossed salad, bread and butter, icy bird and fruit. The B lunch is a burger.

SHAMPOOING VERSUS STEAM-CLEANING

Which way cleans better? Which is better for your carpet? The companies that have steam-extraction equipment say steam is much more thorough and gentler on your carpet. The people that have shampoo equipment say that you can't really get a carpet or anything else cleaned without scrubbing action. Which ones are telling you the truth? They BOTH are! But they each push in one direction favoring the type of equipment and system they use.

Douglas Carpets has no quarrel with either the shampooers or the steam cleaners. We have ALL the necessary equipment and the trained technicians to clean your carpet the way it should be cleaned.

Do you want the very best? Call Douglas Carpets at 697-9137. Here is what we will do for you:

1. Apply a mild shampoo solution with a rotary brush scrubbing machine that gently massages the dirt to the top of the carpet.
2. Use the steam extraction principle with a powerful wet vacuum to thoroughly flush out all the dirt and shampoo residue. (When this operation is finished, over 92 percent of the moisture will be out of your carpet.)
3. Reset the pile of the rug in the direction the fiber was designed when the material was new.

When this process is completed, you will have a beautiful carpet that will stay cleaner longer than ever before. Let me make a simple illustration of the use of both methods. When you wash your clothes in a washing machine, you (A) use soap (B) agitate or scrub, and (C) rinse out the soap residue.

If you are going to have a first class cleaning operation on your carpets, you will have the same thing done. (A) Use shampoo, (B) scrub or agitate the carpet, and (C) rinse out the shampoo and dirt residue. (By the way, cleaning at the right time intervals with proper methods will also make the fiber last up to 3 times as long.) Call today and "let Douglas do it." You will love our services. A living room is only $24.95 and bedrooms are $10.00 - $15.00. Be clean for Christmas. Call now.

Three school districts get special ed funding

Three local school districts — Van Buren, Romulus and Huron — shared in the more than $12 million distributed by the Wayne County Intermediate School District to the 36 local districts for the cost of special education services.

The payments are from the 1 mill special education tax approved by county voters in 1974.

The Huron School District received $51,802 in 1974-75; Romulus received $130,373 and Van Buren received $97,686.

The tax collection for 1974-75 was $13,265,857 which does not include $491,792 in delinquent taxes.

The tax money was augmented by $74,725 in interest earned in 1974-75 and distributed to local school districts. Each district received the full amount of its verified cost. The balance of approximately $1,000,000 will be distributed to local school districts with the 1975-76 special education tax for this year's programs. The total amount of the special education levy was not used in 1974-75 due to the time required by local school districts to recruit qualified teachers and aides, a spokesman said. The carry-over will provide a slight offset for anticipated cuts in state funding.

Degree gained

A Belleville resident was one of 900 individuals who were candidates for master's degrees at Western Michigan University (WMU). He is Richard F. Korgal of 57 W. Spence Road, Belleville. The master candidates were included among a total of more than 2,100 persons who were graduated, including 25 who were presented doctorates. WMU is in Kalamazoo.

Champions make All-Area unbeatable

Belleville places 5 on star-studded team

Sports

When there's a Class A state football championship team around, it's easy to pick an All-Area ball club.

Just use the state champs as the nucleus for the All-Area.

And thanks to Coach Armand Vigna and Livonia Franklin, that's what the core of the All-Area team is made up of — six players: Jerry Pollard, Bob Picard, Bob Suarez, Sam Williams, Tim Hollandsworth and Jim Casey — have been drafted off of Franklin's outstanding contingent.

That contingent boasts winning the inaugural Class A state title, posting a 10-1 won-lost record, capturing its third consecutive Northwest Suburban Conference title and ruining seasons for previously undefeated Detroit Southwestern and Traverse City en route to the auspicious year.

Add to this lineup five players who provided Belleville with its first winning season in recent years, sprinkled with standouts from Wayne Memorial, Westland John Glenn, Romulus, Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Salem and you'll have the best All-Area Team since its inception 15 years ago.

Belleville's representatives include quarterback Dan Scripser, runningback Kevin Barnes, center Tom Bauer, linebacker Roy Rutherford and defensive halfback Dan Theodore.

Romulus's contribution to this year's mythical team is defensive middle guard Ed Abbott, one of the most sought after preps in the area. His 6-4, 230-pound physique makes him the biggest man on the team.

Wayne's all-around athlete Pat Sheridan nailed down one of the end slots while on the opposite side is Livonia Churchill's John Curran.

Glenn has Mike Moses at one of the guard slots and speedster Fred Shoemaker teams with Barnes and Casey as the ballcarriers.

Scott Levitan, an all-Western Six guard, and Dave Champion, who earned all-conference recognition as a tackle in the tough Suburban 8, hold down the other two offensive jobs.

The job of leading this incredible assemblage of talent falls on Scripser, a slick moving operator who is a triple threat man in its truest sense.

Scripser, plagued with injuries during his underclassmen years, emerged as one of the finest quarterbacks in Belleville's history. He hit on 49 of 121 passes for 700 yards and also rushed for 382 yards on 82 attempts for a 4.6 average.

Dan scored four touchdowns and passed for eight others.

"We weren't sure on who was going to quarterback us this season but Scripser stepped in and developed into one of the finest," said Pat Stokes, Belleville High's rookie head coach.

Casey, named to various metropolitan newspapers' all-state teams, was the trigger that fired Franklin past Southwestern and Traverse City in the post-season playoffs. He rushed for 142 yards against Southwestern in the semifinal and chalked up 103 against Traverse City. Jim amassed 652 yards during the regular season and scored eight touchdowns.

"He could have easily had 1,000 yards for the season," said Coach Vigna, "but he was hurt early in the season so we used him sparsely against Garden City and Bloomfield."

"Jim has been an outstanding performer for us both ways," Vigna added. Casey has been a defensive starter at safety for the past three years and offensively for the last two seasons as a runningback. Shoemaker, who runs the 100-yards in 10 seconds flat, chalked up 11 touchdowns for the Rockets as he amassed 821 yards in 145 carries.

"Fred didn't have any cheap TDs," said Coach Lloyd Carr. "Most of the teams double teamed him. Their philosophy was, 'Stop Shoemaker, you stop Glenn,' well, they weren't too successful as our record will attest to that."

Glenn had a 9-1 season, losing only to the state champs.

Shoemaker is also an excellent all-around (Continued on Page A-8)

Defense is the name of their game

Livonia Franklin's highly-respected defense gave up a mere 44 points during the regular season and 60 in 11 games.

And that's less than one touchdown per game.

The reason? "Our boys like to hit," said Franklin

Coach Armand Vigna. "They thrive on defense."

That's what the All-Area has assembled for its 1975 defensive team — defensive specialists who love to hit.

And in that category are ends Joe Feher (Wayne Memorial), Roy Rutherford (Belleville), tackles Bob Suarez (Franklin) and Chuck Squires (John Glenn); middle guard Ed Abbott (Romulus) and linebackers Matt Foster (Churchill), Jim Radley (Wayne Memorial), and

Tim Hollandsworth (Franklin).

In the secondary are Dan Theodore (Belleville), Jerry Pollard (Franklin) and Mark Coulston (John Glenn).

En route to the Class A state title, Franklin posted five shutouts and one big reason was the performance of Hollandsworth, a 6-2, 205 pound senior who follows in the footsteps of two brothers, Rob and David, both of whom starred at Franklin.

Rob is presently playing varsity ball at Central Michigan University.

"There are quite a few schools after him," said Coach Vigna. "He has all the tools of playing college ball right now."

"Holly," as he is called by his teammates, accounted for 20 solo tackles and 37 assists but, more importantly, he seemed to come up with the big plays.

Hollandsworth has been selected for all-state recognition.

Foster, also named to the Associated Press' all-state team, is "Mr. Everything" for Churchill. He had 32 tackles on the season and recovered three fumbles.

In addition, Matt was used as the Chargers' fullback and picked up 487 yards in 121 carries, made 16 receptions for an additional 260 yards and led the team in scoring.

Radley is considered one of the finest defensive players from a school that has produced noted defensive specialists.

Quick to read plays, Jim masterminded Fordson's upset and keyed Wayne's early success, leading the Zebras to three consecutive victories before injuries derailed coach Floyd Carter's team.

Theodore is another one of those all-around players who can do everything on a gridiron. The Tiger strong safety, he had 30 primary tackles and 27 assists while he picked off one pass and ran it back 35 yards.

Dan also returned kickoffs, one for 95 yards for a touchdown against Salem and a 29-yard punt for a touchdown against Ypsilanti.

He made 15 of 17 point after attempts and scored a total of 33 points.

Pollard is a two-year starter for Franklin and had what Vigna called "a superb game against Traverse City in the state finals."

"He played some of the best corner we have seen in these parts for quite a day," said Vigna.

Pollard had nine pass interceptions for the season. One of those was a "big one" against Glenn which sealed Franklin's victory against the Westlanders, thereby providing the Livonians with the key to the playoffs.

Coulston also was a two-way performer for Glenn. Used as a fullback, Mark kept a keen surveillance on the Rocket secondary.

"They stayed out of Mark's territory most of the time," said Coach Lloyd Carr, "and they had

What will Armand Vigna

do for an encore? The Livonia Franklin head football coach accomplished in his first year what many coaches fail to realize in a lifetime — win a state championship.

Vigna guided the Patriots to the Northwest Suburban Conference championship, then jolted unbeaten Detroit Southwestern and ripped Traverse City to capture the inaugural Michigan High School Athletic Association's Class A state football title.

En route, Vigna's team compiled a 10-1 over-all record.

For his accomplishment, The Associated Newspapers and The Daily Eagle are proud to name Vigna as our Football Coach of the Year.

The modest and articulate 40-year-old Franklin counselor points out, "that none of this could have been possible without the assistance of former head coach and present athletic director George Lovich and assistant coach Gerry Cullin."

"This is an honor that we all share," said Vigna. "The coaches here are like one big happy family and I think it became that way through the efforts of our former A.D. Walt Cosens."

Cosens, died of a heart attack last year.

"Cosens set high standards and we have tried to follow in his footsteps," Vigna added.

Raised in Dearborn, Armand played football for Fordson and learned what was needed to produce winners from Coach Mike Megredian.

He later attended the University of Michigan where he earned his degree in physical education in 1957. Later, he was awarded his masters at U of M in guidance.

Vigna coached in Ravenna, Mich for two years, serving as an assistant coach, then moved over to Cherry Hill High where he spent five years (1960-65) as assistant coach to John Soave.

He accepted the job as an assistant coach at Franklin in 1965, working with Cosens and later Lovich to build a power machine that has won the last three Northwest Suburban Conference championships.

What makes Livonia Franklin players stand out?

Here's Vigna's answers: "They have one certain trait — they like to hit and they play the game physically. Off season our boys put in a lot of time with weights."

"And, there is definitely that old fashion, 'friendship' we have for one another that makes coaches and players work together."

Armand and his wife, Judy, have four children, three girls — Judy, 12, Sharon 11, Nancy 9, and one boy, David 7. And it doesn't take the Franklin coach any time to get to the school or gridiron — he lives in Livonia and only a couple of blocks away from the high school.

athlete, having earned All-Area stripes in wrestling and track as well as football.

Barnes is the only junior in the offensive backfield and one of three on this year's team. The 6-1, 170-pound runningback hit paydirt eight times. He rushed for 656 yards in 124 tries for a respectable 5.2 per carry.

"Kevin was our best all-around runner," said Stokes. "He ended up with a total of 50 points, the best on our team."

He also had five receptions for 66 yards for a total of 722 yards.

Sheridan is also a versatile athlete. He's lettered in baseball and basketball, earning All-Area recognition in both sports. Used as a flanker by Coach Lloyd Carter, Pat was potentially dangerous wherever he was on the field. The key to the Wayne offense after halfback Mike Melcher's injury was Sheridan.

"Big 10 teams are very much interested in Pat," said Carter. "He's an excellent athlete who has tremendous potential." Curran was a 2-way performer at end for Churchill. A sound blocker and a fine leader, John co-captained the Chargers to an enviable 7-2 season.

Champion is considered one of the finest offensive tackles that Moshimer has ever coached at Salem. And, considering that Salem had a perfect 9-0 season a year ago and has had some excellent teams in the past, puts Dave in a class of his own.

Champion counted 35 solo tackles, recovered two fumbles and had three hits that caused three other turnovers.

Picard missed his entire junior year because of a leg injury sustained in the first game of the 1974 season. This season he put in double time as a tackle both on defense and offense.

Voted the outstanding lineman in the Northwest Suburban Conference, Bob counted 46 assists and 12 solo tackles.

Moses and Levitan, the two offensive guards, also were unanimous all-league choices. Levitan is described as an exceptionally fine blocker and pass protector. He started in 18 straight Churchill games at right guard.

Bauer, a 5-11, 165-senior was the most reliable blocker on Belleville's squad. Belleville didn't have a punt blocked on it this season and a lot of that credit goes to Bauer who started at center for two years.

Remember these names, because you'll soon see them in the lineups of our colleges and universities in the near future.

Defense is formidable good reason. He was a sure stop sign for us."

Rutherford, a junior, will be back in the Tiger lineup next season and Stokes is counting on him "to become one of our super ball players."

With good reason. Rutherford this season led the team in tackles. He had 36 primaries and 28 assists and counted two blocked punts, running one back for a touchdown.

"He has great speed and desire," Stokes added. "Roy can do it all."

Feher polices the other end on defense and most of Wayne's opponents turned from this rugged 6-1, 205, pound senior's side.

"Feher is one of the hardest hitting ball players we had on our club and when he got to a ballcarrier, that ballcarrier knew he was hit."

Abbott was the strong link in Romulus' defensive chain. The 6-4, 230-pound 17-year-old, who is a top notch wrestler, has a score of college scouts, including the University of Michigan and Michigan State, anxious to get his name on a letter of intent.

Turrentine earns letter at Ferris

Otty Turrentine, a 6-0, 200-pound sophomore receiver from Belleville, started for the offensive unit on Ferris State

OTTY TURRENTINE Stars at Ferris

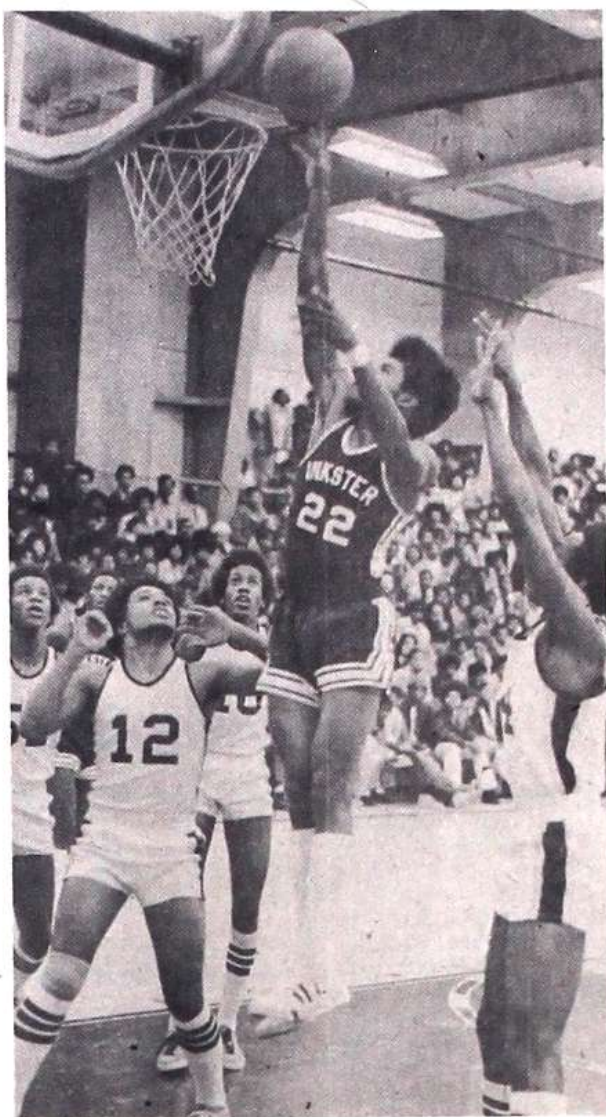

College's football team this season.

Turrentine, utilized as a tight end and a flanker, also scampered for 10 yards on a kickoff return.

The FSC pass receiver holds high school letters in football, basketball and track. He was also an all-conference football selection.

Turrentine is majoring in Graphic Reproduction at Ferris. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ottaway Turrentine of 42500 Harris Road.

Bright prospects for a good season were shattered by a rash of injuries and bad breaks. Turrentine figure prominently in FSC's plans to bounce back next year from an 0-10 mark.

EASY TWO POINTS — Cutting through the Romulus defense, Inkster's Tom Phillips (22) lays up this basket as Michael Morris (12) watches. Phillips scored 15 points but Morrison collected 26, including two decisive free throws in Romulus's 68-66 opening night victory.

Romulus cagers win opener, 68-66

If the rest of the season is anything like the first game, then Inkster Coach George Thompson Jr. will be ready for a rest home in March.

Inkster's Vikings opened up the 1975-76 basketball campaign Wednesday night at Romulus, losing a thriller 68-66.

Michael Morrison's two free throws in the last 24 seconds sealed the victory for the hosts who trailed most of the game.

"We played a good first game," Thompson said. "It showed that we have the potential to become a winning team. However, we didn't run and one of our key players, Rodney Scales, was ill."

"Hopefully, these problems will be resolved before we see competition begins," the Viking coach added.

Inkster eked out a 20-19 first period lead but Romulus outscored their visitors 13-12 tie the game 22-all at halftime.

The Vikings came back in the third period to go-ahead by five as Patrick Thomasson, Stanley Pittman and Tom Phillips led a surge that gave Inkster a 50-45 advantage for three periods.

Thomasson scored six of his seven points, Pittman and Phillips each had four while George Thompson III collected eight assists in that Viking third uprising.

Romulus erased the deficit thanks to Morrison and Billy Anderson who triggered a 23-16 final period.

Morrison started his senior campaign with 26 points, the game's high while Anderson supported him with 17 and Melvin Seward added 14.

Pittman's 20 points led the Vikings. Also in two figures for Inkster were Phillips and Rodney Legion who accounted for 15 and 12, respectively.

Look At Our Get-Serious T'NT RV for '76

...Last year, on a lot of tracks around the country, the '75 version of our new T'NTR-V proved that it doesn't just look like the real thing, it is the real thing. The frame and chain case are aluminum. The suspension is a Torque Reaction slide system. The track is a deep profile low inertia design. And these bulges on the side of the cab aren't just there for decoration. They allow a corner gripping steering angle of 40 degrees on a super stable 34 inch ski stance. To top off the R-V's incredible chassis performance for '76, we've come up with a pair of even more powerful Rotax Free Air Rotary Valve twins, a 250 and a 340. And they pump their power through a tougher drive clutch and drive axle to lay great gobs of power down on the snow right where you want it: out in front of all those other sleds.

AUTO FACTS

by Jr. Kosin

All the rubber hoses in the engine compartment should be checked now and then. They all get hairline cracks that come with age. But beyond these, if the hose is swollen or feels mushy, it should be replaced before it bursts while you are on the road. Remember to change hoses, however, only when the engine is cold. If you are replacing only the upper hose, remove the radiator cap and open the petcock at the bottom of the radiator. Drain two quarts of coolant into a container, and then replace the hose. To replace the lower hose you must fully drain radiator and partially drain the engine block.

Hoses, pumps and fan belts for domestic and foreign cars are only a few of the hundreds of parts available at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26631 Michigan, Inkster. We carry all parts and accessories to keep your car running at its best! Our personnel offer fast, friendly and expert counter service and will be happy to help you select the proper parts for the job you want to do on your car. We also have a complete machine shop repair service for turning brake drums, valve work, and even rebuilding engines. All work is done by expert machinists. Call us at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., Saturdays until 5 P.M. Master Charge and Bank Americard are honored.

Never force a hose free — you might break the connecting joint. Sift the end and pry it off with a screwdriver.

Belleville's Juchartz heads county planners

A Belleville man, Donald D. Juchartz, director of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, has been re-elected chairman of the Wayne County Planning Commission. This will be his third consecutive term as chairman. He was elected by unanimous vote of the 11-member commission.

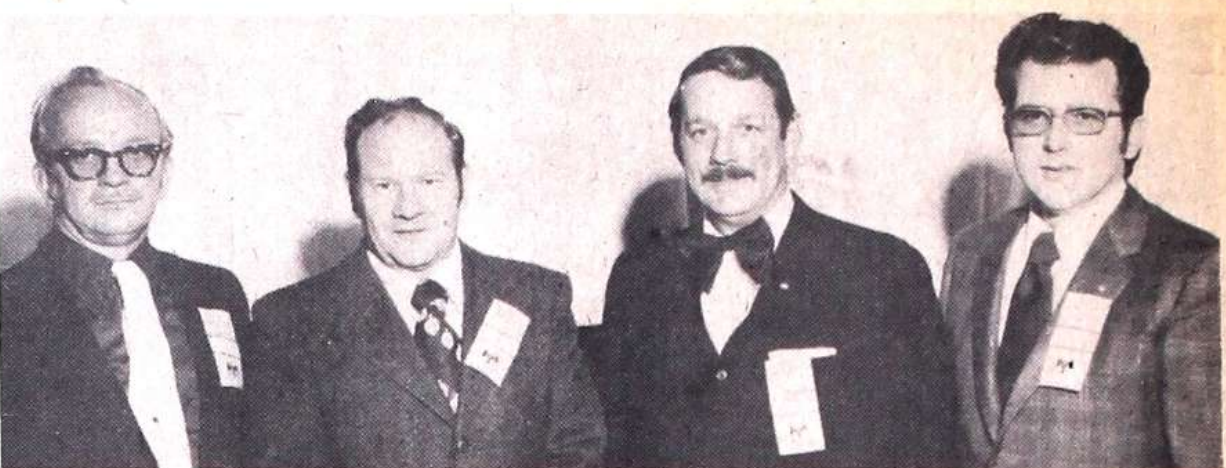

Joseph B. Evanski was re-elected as the commission's vice-chairman and Eleanor Lawson as its secretary. Both are Detroiters.

Juchartz said the Planning Commission's emphasis in the coming year will continue to be on encouraging the county, cities and townships to take steps to preserve environmental assets.

"Once a desirable wooded area is cleared for commercial use as a shopping center or subdivision, it is gone forever," he said. "County planners have no desire to impose planning dictates on local communities."

Each member of the Planning Commission presented a specific segment of the community. Juchartz represents agriculture. Evanski holds the industry seat, and Mrs. Lawson represents real estate. Commission members are appointed by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners for 3-year terms.

At Eastern

Unusual answers: Her job

"How do I give my body to science when I die?" "I found an unusual dead bird. Who in the Biology Department would like to have it?"

"What biology professor would like to have this weird spider I found?"

These are some of the routine questions asked when Marguerite Greathouse of Belleville, senior secretary in the office of the Department of Biology at Eastern Michigan University (CMU), answers the telephone.

And—she knows the answers.

If someone has an injured hawk, Merlyn Minick gets the call; the spider expert is Donald F. M. Brown; many other requests are answered by Mrs. Greathouse herself with knowledge she has gained during her five years in the office.

Another hazard of the job is the people who arrive at the office with donations. These have included a huge turtle and a rattlesnake "which, thank goodness, was put in a sturdy terrarium with a tight fitting top," Mrs. Greathouse said.

Her office duties include taking dictation and handling the correspondence of Herbert Caswell, department head; collecting catalog copy and schedules; seeing to the department budget; and also the special budget requests included in the service, supplies and materials orders. For a department such as biology, these orders cover a wide variety of items, and when deliveries are made the office staff must be alert because many times shipments include

MARGUERITE GREATHOUSE
... of Belleville

"living matter". This could be animal or plant material and often is to be delivered on the day a class is scheduled to study it.

Recently, a junior high school student wrote to the department asking for an address so that he could order many different strains of fruit flies. The request was turned over to Dr. Shih-an Yu, a specialist in that area, who found that he easily could supply the budding scientist with the flies he needed for his research.

School children who call or write for information about acquiring frogs or mice are either given spare specimens or an address where they can order their own.

Many fetal pigs are ordered for use in introductory biology for dissection purposes and recently Mrs. Greathouse was called to handle an emergency in the girl's restroom where, for some strange reason, a pig was stuck in the plumbing.

Elementary school classes are sometimes brought by their instructors to visit the premises of the Biology Department on the third floor of Mark Jefferson. The department members take these invasions with calm acceptance. A few weeks ago, a class which had enjoyed such activities as looking through microscopes, examining laboratory equipment and seeing preserved specimens, sent special notes of thanks in the form of colored paper flowers.

"Our lab freezers always have weird dead things in them, but recently the halls and classrooms had a pervasive odor of skunk which couldn't be explained until I checked a freezer, and there it was," Mrs. Greathouse said.

"With all the duties we have here, however, we feel that our greatest job is to try to help the students, she added.

Sometimes they come in here feeling that all they get is the runaround, so we stop everything and try to get them headed in the right direction.

"Frustration in undergraduates is fairly common and if we can suggest any way of easing that unhappiness, we feel rewarded."

Mrs. Greathouse started back to work after her youngest of three children and two stepchildren were in high school. The youngest now is a student at Kalamazoo College. She had thought she might not want to work full-time as it curtails her freedom to travel with her husband, Pat Greathouse, who is an international vice-president of the United Auto Workers. However, she manages trips with him in the summer.

Last year they spent a week in Stockholm where he was speaking to the International Metalworkers Federation. This was followed by a week's tour of Germany where he visited industrial plants and she and daughter Karen did sightseeing on their own. She recalls the most unusual trip to be one in 1966 when she accompanied her husband to Russia, Siberia and Armenia.

Local CAP celebrates birthday of organization

The Cherryhill Cadet Squadron, a local unit of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP), will be joining more than 1,900 other CAP units throughout the United States and Puerto Rico in celebrating its 34th anniversary.

CAP was founded on Dec. 1, 1941, by a group of light aviation enthusiasts and private pilots as a means of donating their time and aircraft for the nation's civilian defense effort.

The organization won fame during World War II for its long range civil defense operations, which included submarine patrol along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

CAP now a civilian auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, is noted for its air search and rescue work, and has been credited with 43 saves, but also assists with relief work during disasters, cooperates with civil defense agencies and conducts aerospace education and youth motivation programs, a CAP spokesman said. All its members are volunteers.

The Cherryhill Cadet Squadron has increased with great rapidity due to the visiting of area schools, putting posters in public places, and just generally making themselves and their program known, the spokesman added.

The squadron now 32 in number has acquired a program with activities and opportunities that are numerous.

"The program presents the chance for you to serve your country, community and your fellow man, to enhance your knowledge of Aviation and strengthen your leadership abilities," the spokesman said.

Officials learn

City isn't 'speed trap'

If a lot of tickets are issued in Belleville, it isn't because the city has not done its part in warning drivers of the city's speed limits.

A recent inspection by the American Automobile Association (AAA) has shown that Belleville "passes" the AAA's tests to determine whether the city should be classified as a speed trap.

An inspector from the travel agency has gone through the city with Police Chief C. E. McLaughlin to survey the signs pointing out speed limits within the city, and has indicated that Belleville's speed limits are adequately marked to insure that a motorist has enough time to slow down and comply with the laws.

The AAA is not afraid to classify communities as "speed trap" on its travel brochures used throughout the United States, if the agency determines that trickery is used to insure that some communities' police departments issue tickets to unwary speeders.

"The AAA gave us a clean bill of health," said McLaughlin after the inspection.

McLaughlin added that the inspection came after a complaint by a motorist who received a ticket for speeding above the community-wide 25-mile-per-hour speed limit on Belleville city streets.

Belleville has a reputation as a city tough on speeders, and the reputation is backed by statistics released by the 34th District Court which hears all of the city's traffic cases.

On a population basis, Belleville issues more tickets to motorists and utilizes the court more than any of the other four communities involved in the court — Romulus, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township and Huron Township.

Students take part in retreat

High school students involved with 30 churches, including the Belleville Presbyterian, took part in a weekend youth retreat at Alma College.

A choir consisting of several participants of the retreat rehearsed with Dr. Ernest G. Sullivan of the college Music Department, and sang at the college's Sunday morning worship service in Dunning Memorial Chapel.

The Saturday retreat held last month included lecture-demonstrations by several members of the Alma College faculty, a football game in the college's Bahlke Stadium and a campus dance.

Arts, craft fair is set in Belleville

The Belleville Holiday Arts and Crafts Fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at Edgemont Elementary School, 125 Edgemont St., Belleville.

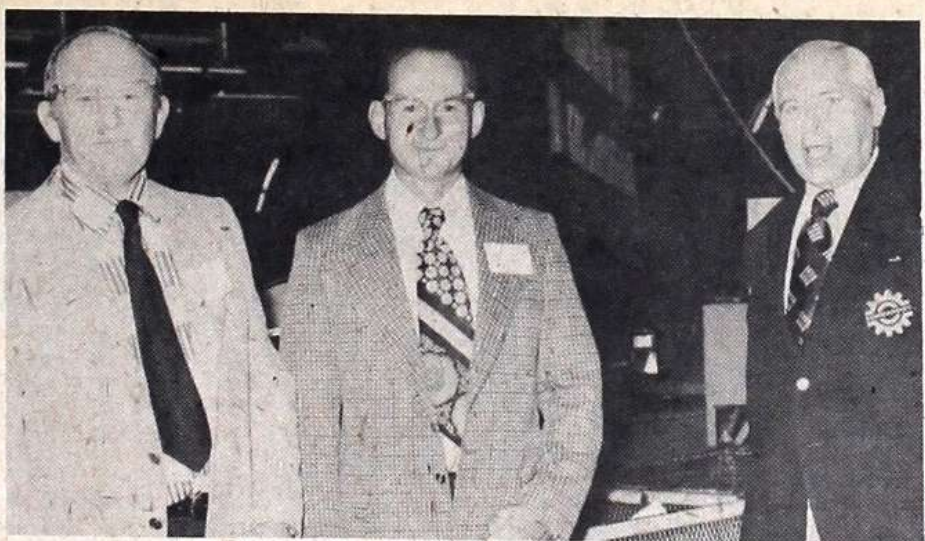

Many local artists and craftsmen have donated a booth fee to The Number, Belleville's Crisis Counseling Center, to show and sell their work.

Some of the crafts shown will be pottery, weaving, Indian bead work, leathercraft, plant displays, woodworking, oil painting, and metal sculpture.

A few crafts will be demonstrated during the fair.

Homemade lunch, refreshments and baked goods also will be on sale.

Mrs. Carol LoPresto, chairman of the fair, said she would like to remind fair shoppers "that the fair will be a good place to find an original gift for those hard-to-buy-for people on your Christmas list."

chartered jet from Lansing to Montreal recently for a tour of Bombardier Limited's Ski-Doo production and other facilities in Quebec. During the 2-day trip, dealers saw manufacturing and assembly areas in Valcourt, watching new 1976 Ski-Doo snowmobiles being produced in the village some 60 miles east of Montreal where Joseph-Armand Bombardier began the first mass-production of one-and-two-passenger snowmobiles in 1959-60.

Student counselors gain empathy training credit

A group of student counselors from the Student Service Center in the Van Buren schools recently took part in a weekend of empathy training.

The classes, which were held at Trinity Episcopal Church, in part dealt with the "vocabulary descriptive of understanding and conveying empathy", a school spokesman said.

Empathy is the science of understanding another's viewpoint and feelings and indicating this understanding to the other. It includes sensing how feelings can be expressed through a speaker's tone of voice, body language and word usage.

"If you would like to know a group of serious working, interested and involved students, become acquainted with the student counselors," the spokesman added.

Trainees had much individual practice in becoming familiar with these expressions as they worked in three small groups of seven each with two experienced trainers directing the instruction.

The program included three hours working at sensing the feelings of counselors in role-playing situations and five hours of one to one counselor to counselee interviews before the group with open discussion between each interview concerning the insights revealed, vocabulary noted and over-all criticisms of the techniques used.

To save money

Think 'taxes' early

This year, more than almost any other, it may well pay for taxpayers to "think taxes" in December.

Why? Simply because the new tax law has made it possible for millions of Americans to cut their taxes in a variety of ways. But to do so, the law has some new features that may take time to figure out and apply.

And then there's the matter of gathering together records. The new law, in some instances, requires certification to substantiate a deduction. Getting a document now could save a taxpayer considerable time and effort later.

Of course, wise taxpayers who itemize their deductions always have checked over their records well before the start of the filing season so that they could have an accurate count of medical, charitable and other deductions.

Having a complete account of all deductions particularly is important because this year the standard deduction has been increased, possibly making it more advantageous to claim the standard deduction, using the Short Form 1040A, than to itemize deductions, an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) spokesman said. The new standard deduction is 16 percent of adjusted gross income, up to a maximum of $2,600 for those filing joint returns, $2,300 for a single person, and $1,300 for married persons filing separately.

Most taxpayers should take the time to compute their taxes based both on the new standard deduction and on itemizing deductions to determine which method cuts their tax bill more. Once the tax forms arrive, it's much simpler and quicker for the taxpayer to determine whether to itemize or take the standard deduction if he or she took the time beforehand to get a "fix" on itemized deductions.

Two other changes in the law make early record-checking very important this year. The first is the credit for the purchase of a new residence. Generally, the credit is 5 percent of the adjusted basis of the new home, to a maximum of $2,000, provided the taxpayer meets certain requirements.

Among the qualifications that must be met for the credit is certification by the seller that the purchase price is the lowest price at which the residence was offered for sale since Feb. 28, 1975. Home buyers who are eligible for the credit, but didn't get the certificate when they settled on their new home, should ask their builder for a certificate right away. Without the certificate, the IRS cannot allow the credit.

The other change affects those who sell a home and then buy another to live in. For some time, homeowners could postpone all or part of the tax gain from the sale of their principal residence if they reinvested the money in another home within a specified period of time. The time limit now has been lengthened. But to take full advantage of the liberalized provisions, the homeowner must have at hand complete records on the old home as well as the new.

Gathering records in December can not only help in taking full advantage of tax breaks in the new law, but also in making the most of the old law as well.

Mayor invites citizens for coffee at City Hall

"We're trying to increase communications among the citizens and elected officials, and I'll be keeping regular office hours in the morning to meet with the citizens," Emerson said.

'Fashions of the Past' planned for January

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Bicentennial — possibly one of today's most popular words — seems to have different meanings to different people.

Literally speaking the word is a derivation of the prefix "bi" which, in general, denotes "two", and centennial, which pertains to a space of 100 years or its completion; ergo "200".

Since 1776 will mark the 200th birthday of our nation, the word "bicentennial" has been given a 21-gun salute by being made a proper noun via capitalization. Hence, Bicentennial automatically means something special and one need not add "celebration" when using the word.

But getting back to the interpretation part of this epistle — there are those who look on the term with pride, interest and spirit while others have been heard to mutter, "If I hear that word one more time, I'll scream!"

So, actually Bicentennial is a word physically translated by one's personality and background as well as his feelings about being an American.

Throughout, this great land, festivities of every sort are taking place or being planned as future events. The Van Buren-Belleville area is no exception and already numerous activities have saluted '76.

Among the initial programs for the coming year being touted by an enthusiastic committee is "Fashions of the Past," a style show to be presented by the Van Buren Township Bicentennial Committee the latter part of January.

Since time is the all-important key to the show's success, the Van Buren-Belleville area seamstresses (and their counterparts) are hereby being given notice to "prepare."

This is going to be one of the fun segments for the community at large so advance notification is a "must". An entry form with the various categories is included with this story and those interested in participating are urged to please clip it out, fill it in and mail no later than Jan. 7, 1976.

The task of chairman (and it's a big one) is being shouldered by Mary Ann Bassett whose co-workers include

'...Van Buren-Belleville seamstresses are hereby being given notice to prepare.'

Edward and Clea Luebke, Phyllis Seaman, Kittle Hornkohl, Jackie Reuben, Pat Baughman, Shirley Car-naham, Gayle Patterson and Debbie Zaborowski.

The group stresses that this is NOT a contest. There is no competition and there are no prizes. It mainly is an event to launch our country's celebration in costume and to encourage our area dressmakers to participate by using their sewing talents. The show will be an evening of entertainment and camaraderie with free door prizes and refreshments included.

In viewing the creativity of the entrants, patrons will see what might one day be an heirloom to future generations. It will be an outstanding way in which to remember the heritage of our forefathers. And, by having a costume prepared so early in the year, one will be ready for the many events planned for the next 12 months.

Fashions are to cover a time period from 1776 to 1876 — for only the first hundred years. Items are to be made especially for this show, fashioned from patterns available in fabric stores or from an original which would be authentic when duplicated. Apparel may be worn by the seamstress or tailor or by someone designated to model the garment. Either person must be a resident of Van Buren Township or the city of Belleville.

With the many versatile and beautiful fabrics available today, probably the most difficult decision will be what material to choose.

Many women's clubs have had guest speakers who themes were costumes for the big year. For those who've yet to get their first look at the latest pattern catalogs, they're in for a delightful surprise.

While getting the information for this story from Mrs.

Bassett, we checked over a number of patterns which are available locally at So-Fro Fabrics.

McCall's "Bicentennial Wagon Train Pilgrimage Group" has the guidelines for yesteryear's blouses, skirts, jumpers, aprons and shawls. There are the makings for a pilgrim costume as well as a dance hall girl's regalia in the Simplicity file.

Butterick quite possibly has the best package since it includes an idea sheet of authentic fabric and accessory details by Robert Pusilo, costume designer for the New Castle Bicentennial Committee of Westchester County, N.Y. The kit, with information and ideas on trims, ruffles, underskirts, etc., is called "1776 — Make it Real."

Also available in the Butterick line are mens and boys wear, military and statesmen costumes as well as frontiersmen, girls and Dolly Madison styles.

Clubs throughout the area will receive letters with details on the show and will be encouraged to send at least one representative from their group. Spectators also will be welcome to attend in any clothing they might have from the 1776-1876 era just to help set the mood. Those wishing to "dress" for the occasion will not be expected to model so they can feel free to merely come as part of the audience.

A Belleville High School senior Tom Russell (theater buffs will remember him as Dr. Einstein in the school's recent presentation of "Arsenic and Old Lace") has agreed to design the program cover as well as the show's official poster. Tom has received many art accolades including the

Quotes worth quoting

"It is not so difficult for a man to be elected president, or governor, or mayor; and even make out to "be" president, or governor, or mayor. But no man ever yet has been, or ever will be, elected to the high place of artist, or poet, or saint, or prophet. The greatest, most desirable, most profitable of offices are within a man's own choice. He elects himself. Opportunity is absolutely free."

David Grayson said it

Baby son baptized

James Robert Brooks was 1-month old when he received the sacrament of baptism Nov. 23 at St. Aloysius Catholic Church in Romulus.

His God-parents Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Busch of Taylor were among those attending the buffet which followed at the home of the infant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks Jr. of Hill Way, Romulus.

Others at the party were the baby's brother and sister, Billie, 6-years old, and Lisa, 3½ years of age; their grandfather William Brooks Sr. and Mrs. Charlotte Gaskell of Romulus.

Start your holiday 'gift list' in your kitchen

By LEESMITH
Suburban Living Editor

— with visions of sugarplums" in the not so distant future (this is being written one month to the day) it's time for the culinary artists (and us plain cookin' people) to give thought to Christmas cookery.

A recent visit to the Fred C. Fischer Library in Belleville prompted the idea for a book nook column strictly in the pots and pans and blenders and beaters departments.

So many smart holiday "shoppers" turn to their kitchens for a portion of their presents and often have the goodies prepared well in advance of the hectic season. Ingenious women have Christmas-giving in mind as far back as June when they are mixing the ingredients for strawberry jam, freezing sliced or whole berries or tossing together pies to be frozen for future use.

Add a kitchen cupboard full of homemade goodies to a well-stocked freezer and you have the perfect shopping center for presents to convey the warm well-wishing that comes from truly giving of yourself.

With gift giving in mind even before that, the foresighted have shopped rummage and garage sales, the dime stores and discount shops and even scoured through those out-of-reach cabinets and cupboards for unusual containers for their products.

Inexpensive brandy snifters, wine, parfait and sherbet glasses as well as apothecary jars are ideal ways in which to "wrap" jams and jellies for special friends. Not only do they get to enjoy the homemade goodies but are left with a pleasant reminder of the gift giver as an afterglow.

Tins for cookies seem to get prettier every year and come in all sizes and shapes — oval, circular, rectangular, octagonal, low, high, squat, skinny, cylindrical, you name it. Cookies can also be presented on a nice new teflon — lined cookie sheet which many "experienced" cooks have failed to buy since they've stayed with what they've become used to all these years.

Bread boards — and speaking of different designs, you can really find some cut in unique and imaginative shapes — are perfect for holding loaves of homemade bread or rows of dimer rolls.

Candy from m'lady's kitchen can be packaged in so MANY different ways that it's hard to know where to start and stop. Ceramic pots for plants are one way to give two gifts-in-one; vases can hold wrapped hard candies and tall sticks; baskets (find an interesting duck shape or horn of plenty) will hold any thing that's wrapped properly or how about any kind of fancy crystal or glass candy dish or cake plate?

It all takes just a wee bit of pondering, folks, mixed with looking around you when you're in a store or shop. Think, too, about the velvet or gingham ribbon trim, the bits of holly or mistletoe or the tiny candy canes you might use to add a decorative touch to your packaging.

So — now that we've the containers out of the way, let's get on to the nitty-gritty of the work involved. And it can be easy and quick (with mixes) or the from-scratch method which entails just a bit more work and, thus, a bit more time.

On entering the Belleville Library, just turn to your left and, voila, you will find every kind of cookbook you've ever imagined and, with space allowed, we're going to delve into a few that particularly stress the holiday season.

Since we've dealt primarily with the gift-giving end of cooking, a good place to start is with "The Gift-Giver's Cookbook" by Jane Green. On the fly leaf, Dorothy Rodgers adds an apt note as she says, "Surely this book fills a need. If you like to cook and like to give, it is perfection."

In her research, Jane Green has come up with such delights as Crybabies, a drop cookies loaded with molasses, hot coffee, dark raisins and chopped walnuts. Christmas Hermits, of course, speak for themselves as does Holiday Fruit Candy which is NOT for calorie counters since it's crammed full of candied cherries and pineapple and lots of pecans, almonds and walnuts.

The table of contents lists fruitcakes, breads, cookies, plum pudding, candy and nuts, jellies, jams, marmalades, preserves, syrups, sauces, spiced fruits and chutneys, relishes and pickles, savorys and snacks and festive beverages.

Having the ideal title for a Christmas-time tome is Mimi Sheraton's "Vision's of Sugarplums" which really conjurs up all kinds of images, doesn't it? Here is a charming and comprehensive collection of cakes, cookies, candies and confections from all the countries that celebrate Christmas.

Here are not the clever intentions of an imaginative cook but the actual traditional recipes for the merriest and most affecting of seasons.

Devonshire Brandy Pudding, Epiphany Jam Tart, Armenian Golden Wheat and Apricot Pilaff, Lebanese Crullers and Danish Advent Pretzels are but a few of the recipes.

There are also the Golden Bread of Verona, Dutch Raisin Bread and Charleston Ice Cream

Eggnog. Doesn't it make you want to rush right out, get the book and dash to the nearest market for the necessary ingredients? Who wouldn't love to receive some Brandy Ring Twists (they're Swedish) or Greek Honey Nut Bread from a dear friend!

If candy-making is your forte, then check out June Roth's "Old Fashioned Candymaking" and delve into such mouth watering delights as pralines, brittles, caramels, taffy, penuche, and fudge, fudge.

Nostalgia buffs should be intrigued by the treasury of antique labels, line drawings, photographs and original advertisements of early candy manufacturers which share pages with the time-tested recipes.

Roll these around your tongue for a moment — Grand Opera Creams, Tiddlywinks, Cobblestone Caramels, or Bon Bons (they've always intrigued me for some reason. I think it's probably the name more than anything).

That's just a start and, hopefully, the few things we've mentioned will be enough to nudge you into the library. That's your starting point, remember! Take a look at all the other interesting titles that share the shelves with the select few we've mentioned.

Don't forget — take a sharp left as you enter the second set of doors.

Bride chooses parents' anniversary, same church for wedding ceremony

Prior to moving to their new residence at 26119 Fifth Street, Taylor, the newly wed William Thomas Pershons motored to California for a 3-week honeymoon.

Linda Marie Marshick of Romulus became Mrs. Pershon in an Oct. 11 ceremony, on the same day that her parents were married in 1952 and at the same site, St. John's Lutheran Church in Taylor. Some 200 assembled guests witnessed the double ring rite at 5 p.m.

The Rev. Albert Firchau heard the couple's vows before an altar appointed with two vases of white mums and pom poms.

Organist George Möll accompanied Clara Simons as she sang "There is Love", "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Marshick of 27630 Wick Road, Romulus, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pershon of 22340 Haig Street, Taylor.

Given in marriage by her father, Linda was gownned in a toe-touching creation of sata peau with Venice lace forming the high collar which accented the empire bodice and also the ruffle which edged the skirt and chapel train. Styled with lace-cuffed bishop sleeves, the dress was complemented by a colonial bouquet of blue and white miniature carnations, white rosebuds, baby's breath and white satin streamers. A high pearl tiara secured her triangular-shaped fingertip veil which was banded in lace to match the dress trim.

The bride chose her aunt, Mrs. Robert Opatkiewicz of Romulus, to be her honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Kathleen Opatkiewicz of Romulus; Mrs. Thomas Jamrock of Dearborn Heights and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. P. Steven Cole of East Detroit.

Identically fashioned, their dresses were designed with royal blue velvet bodices with lace and pale blue ribbon outlining the keyhole necklines. The pale blue chiffon used for the skirts matched the wrist length sleeves of the gown. Their bouquets, arranged in the colonial mode, were comprised of blue carnations, white rosebuds, baby's breath and royal blue streamers.

The matron of honor was distinguished by her royal blue mantilla which fell to shoulder length from a pearl headress. The others' headgear was made in pale blue.

Best man was Craig Langlois of Harper Woods. Groomsmen were John Pershon of Taylor and Duane Marshick of Romulus, brothers of the bride and groom.

At the reception which followed at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Taylor, the 300 guests were greeted by Mrs. Marshick in a formal jacket gown of aqua polyester worn with matching shoes and hand bag. The bridegroom's mother chose to wear an apricot chiffon gown accented with a floor length cape trimmed in matching maribou. Both mothers were presented with white orchids.

The new Mrs. Pershon, a 1971 graduate of Romulus High School, was employed at F.X. Coughlin Co. of Romulus prior to her marriage.

Since married couples may not work at the company the bride will seek employment elsewhere. Her husband continues to be employed there.

The Colonial House in Taylor was the setting for the rehearsal party hosted by the bride and bridegroom.

Haggerty Brownies conduct investiture

In Girl Scouting, "big sisters" are Brownies who have already been invested and "little sisters" are the ones who've prepared for investiture. On Nov. 10 at Haggerty Elementary School Troop No. 744, led by Peggy Sumner and Belinda Garland, was among those taking part in the program.

Big sisters, Karen Herrmann, Lori Gonczy, Sherry Charkiewicz, Jennifer Grieve and Lara Widener were in charge of their junior counterparts: Kathy Forsyth, Pamela Charkiewicz, Jennifer Van Buren, Connie Oster, Rhonda Garland, Dawn Henry, Debbie Jacobson, Karen Gonczy, Leanna Thomas and Delores Riley. Tina Sanders was flag guard.

With Suzanne Watson as flag guard, Troop 736 invested Roni Sue Mäver, Marie Finch, Kim La Boda, Kathy Wirts, Janice Jalynski, Kim La Peer, Cathy Baird, Wendy Giza, Sheri Bowman and Linda Baker. Their big sisters were Cheryl Luecke, Lisa Watson, Amy Delaforce, Kimberly Mickus, Deborah Schmidt, Valerie Stover, Vicky Thomas, Brenda Younts, Carrie Giza, Sheila Gelguidice and Diana Paul.

The 7 p.m. ceremony opened with the Brownie and American flags being carried by Laurie Brown, Dorothy Pritchard, Suzanne Watson, and Tina Sanders. The girls sang "Make New Friends" and the new leaders of Troop No. 374 Ann Feltman and her husband, Frank, received their pins as did committee member Jackie Brown. Troop No. 736's leader, Linda Watson, and her assistant and their committee members, Charles Watson and Kathy Wirts also were pinned.

Troop No. 744 leaders Peggy Sumner and Belinda Garland received pins as did their committee members, Karen Charkiewicz, Barbara Thomas, Linda Widener and Debbie Sanders.

Kim Cavin, Gale Gapuz and Patti Gillingham of Troop No. 374 invested Shannon Mislter, Lisa Anthony and Kristen Kucel.

The Brownie Smile Song, cookies and punch brought the program to a close.

Mrs. Scarano has been named Troop Services Director for the nine troops headquartered at Edgemont, Denton and St. Anthony schools in the area.

As Troop Services Director, Mrs. Scarano will now be responsible for recruiting troop leaders for over 200 Girl Scouts, ranging in ages from 6 through 12, for training leaders, providing program ideas, contacting resource people and researching community service opportunities available to Girl Scout troops.

SERVING AMERICA FROM THE BEGINNING

The Want Ads are an American institution... one that has been proven successful down through the history of our great country. There must be something special about an advertising medium that has stood the test of time like the Want Ads have! Just as the colonists did... and other groups of Americans through the years have done... people today continue to turn to the Want Ads whenever they have something to sell, want to buy, rent or offer service... or look for a job. We've been serving America from the beginning!
